Awake, O soul, thy hours are fleeting. This life is rapidly completing. Time with eternity is meeting. Soon comes the night;
Thy retribution, too, will come,
According to thy deeds, thy doomDo right, do right.

Though clouds thy firmament o'erspread, And tempests burst around thy head; Though life its greenest foliage shed, In sorrow's blight; And though thy holy hopes and fears, Lie buried 'neath the gathering years— Do right, do right.

Faint not in all the weary strife, Though every day with toll be rife-Work is the element of life-Action is light;
For man is made to toll and strive.
And only those who labor live—
Do right, do right.

Life is not all a fleeting dream,
A meteor flash, a rainbow gleam,
A bubble on the passing stream,
Soon lost to sight; For there's work for every hour, In every passing word a power— Do right, do right.

On, life is full of solemn thought, And noble deeds—if nobly wrought— With fearful consequence fraught; And there is might— If gathered—in each passing hour, That gives the soul unearthly power-Do right, do right.

Yesterday morning about half past eleven o'clock, train of twelve cars from this city to Johnsonville, was blown to atoms about seven miles out on the North-western railroad. The train was composed twelve cars besides the engine and tender; nine of the cars were loaded with powder and ammunition, another was an express car and contained BACCO, at freight, and the other caboose car a few passengers. Just as the train was nearing the seven mile tank, crossing an embankment and just entering a cutting a spherical shell, probably carelessly packed, exploded, and in an instant an explosion ensued which shook the Capitol, and made the earth tremble for miles around.
